

MedicAlert®SA gets 13 000 hits in 30 days!

22 December 2010 saw the launch of MedicAlert® South Africa's (SA) revamped website (www.medicalert.co.za). The 'official' launch coincided with the release of the first e-newsletter announcing the introduction of the new silicon band. The response was overwhelming with more than 13,000 members visiting the new website and since then Medicalert® has received more than 100 orders for the new silicon bands. If you would like to order your silicon band you can do it by phoning 021-4257328 or email info@medicalert.co.za

The silicon bands appear to be more popular with members who actively participate in the various sporting events in South Africa. And subsequently the Board and staff are now exploring ways of improving on all existing identification jewellery to accommodate our active membership.

After the great response from existing MedicAlert® SA members, the website has been updated to allow new members to affiliate and existing members to update their details or pay annual fees online, in addition members can purchase Identity Jewellery and donate to the Uncedo Project.

MedicAlert SA is an organisation with a proud history of giving and has identified the rapid increase of the need for identity bracelets and membership in vulnerable communities. Therefore MedicAlert SA has launched the UNCEDO Project as part of its poverty alleviation strategy. This project aims to make membership available to previously disadvantaged or impoverished children and the elderly who are not able to afford the membership but are in the most need of MedicAlert® services.

MedicAlert® SA works with various support groups to ensure that they support people most in need!

However we need your support!
